

Punchout

Your procurement system— Powered by summit.com

Have the best of both worlds. Use your existing corporate procurement system while allowing your buyers to punchout to summit.com. When you punchout to summit.com, your organization takes greater control of your financial supply chain while still benefiting from our web front end.

With punchout, you'll:

- Guide employees to buy from summit.com using your pricing – Your team can use your existing procurement system (such as Ariba or Coupa) to punchout to summit.com and retrieve quotes or browse products based on your account-specific pricing. Depending on your requirements, we can set up access to a custom or full catalog.
- Maintain approval authority – Once users check-out, the order returns to your system and proceeds through your normal approval channels. After authorization, your purchase orders flow directly to us for fulfillment.
- Ensure your negotiated discounts reach your bottom line – Since the punchout process ensures you get account-level pricing, you can be sure those savings reach your bottom line.
- Enhance your existing purchasing process – Because punchout integrates with most major purchasing systems, your team doesn't have to learn any new software. Also, we designed summit.com to make it easy to find what you want.
